

SolShare and Batteries

! Communal DC-coupled batteries with SolShare may be possible depending on the specific site layout.

If you are considering a battery installation, you must inform Allume via uk.info@allumeenergy.com to discuss the project and confirm technical feasibility for the proposed site.

There are many site variables that influence how well-suited a site is for battery storage, and which battery type is best.

Without a discussion with the Allume team, there is a significant risk to the success and functionality of the installation.